Why Ararna e-learning Professional Development for General Practice?

Everything we do is to improve the working life and empower practice staff, to help enhance the patient experience.

Both time and financial pressures present significant barriers to organisational learning and professional development throughout primary care. E-learning enables delegates to address key developmental areas scheduled around core business activities, in an effective and efficient way.

Delegates can work through course content pertinent to their individual developmental needs at their own pace around current business activity.

The Benefits of Ararna's e-learning suite

Our e-learning professional development suite addresses key business skill capabilities within general practice.

Our professional development suite for general practice provides development material for practice staff addressing business skills, communication skills and other topics to help develop productivity and encourage effective and efficient working.

Key improvements can be expected in Managing Demand, Patient and Stakeholder Engagement, HR and Legal, Team working and Staff Satisfaction, Change and Risk Management and Time Management, among other areas, with new module topics released every month!

Certificate of successful topic study assessment for each module for users personal training and development records

e-learning Ararna

Working with you to develop the professional development modules your practice staff need

We are a business consultancy and training organisation established in 2000. Ararna prides itself on working with General Practice and sees the heart of our e-learning plans to be created by you, the users. Staff competencies and skills are critical in meeting the needs of CQC requirements. Our modules all come with a certificate and assessment providing evidence of training.
